

We are all living through strange and challenging times at present due to the Covid-19 pandemic, but we want you to know that Unite the Union is here to support members like you.

At present, members are finding themselves in a range of different situations with many

- having to work remotely from home
- having to self-isolate or take time off work due to caring/family commitments
- on lay-off's or short-time working
- being furloughed or made redundant
- continuing to work but in circumstances which are changing on a daily basis.

In such situations, our officers, staff, reps and activists continue to do all they can to support members in a variety of different ways and we're sending this flyer to you to draw your attention to the further support available via our www.learnwithunite.org online learning platform.

Many members are looking to make use of the additional time they may have available to explore opportunities to improve their learning, skills and employability to help them prepare for the future. Whatever happens! It makes sense to retain your Unite membership to maintain the support and help we can provide like you.

Click the links contained in this document to start your learning journey, find out about the learning and skills opportunities or gain access to the hundreds of online taster sessions, learning drills or fully funded courses available free of charge to Unite members.

To get started simply go to www.learnwithunite.org and find a course to suit you! Find out what's new at our Facebook page below.
